

When multiple teams are working to get the new product launched on time

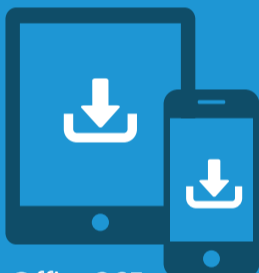

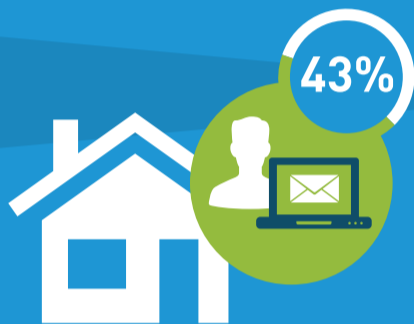

Collaboration is the lifeblood of many corporate enterprises, and without productivity tools to create, edit and share files, nothing would get done.

Today, more than 1.2 billion people around the world rely on Microsoft Office for creating and editing files.

43% of employed Americans work remotely at least sometimes.¹

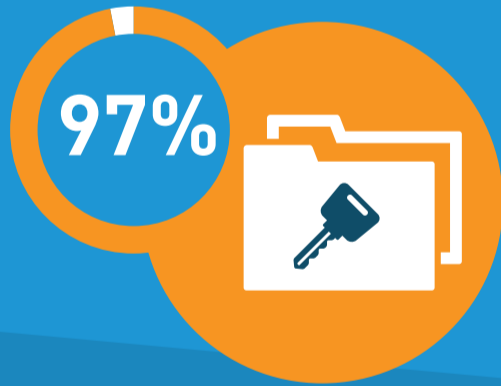

Office mobile downloads have exceeded more than 340 million.

Office 365

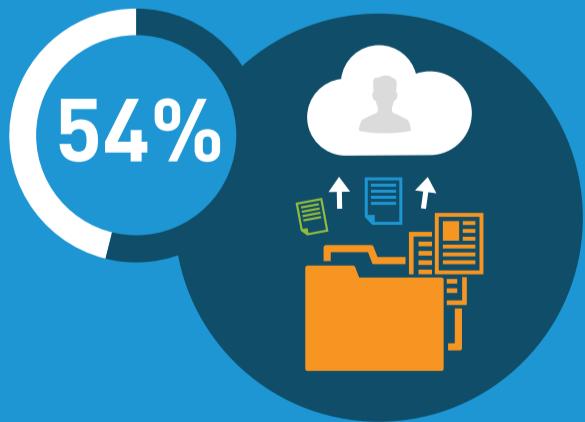

The need to collaborate on files leads many colleagues to share them both inside and outside their organizations, but they don't always do it securely.

97% of employees have access to some form of sensitive or confidential information.²

Email is the de facto collaboration tool.

54% of employees save company files to personal cloud storage.²

Business-class file sharing solutions with centralized IT management controls can secure corporate data and speed collaboration at the same time.

Always be prepared, increase productivity and never lose another file with SecuriSync. View tip sheet >